

Party time to cheer us up

Amnesty International

THE next meeting of Shrewsbury's Amnesty International group is on Tuesday, March 4, at the Hobbs Room, Shrewsbury Library.

The meeting starts at 7.30pm and Shrewsbury branch member and chair of Amnesty International's International Executive Committee, Peter Pack, will talk on the forthcoming Human Dignity Campaign.

Last month saw members enjoy their annual treat - a January Christmas dinner.

Rather unusually members gather to hold their festive party slightly later than most groups - in order to brighten up a 'dull month'.

Group member Roy Dolton said everyone gathered at their usual haunt, The Tankerville Arms, and had a great night out.

"January may seem a bit odd for a Christmas dinner," he said, "but a few years ago we thought that December was always busy for meals out.

"January is usually a bit dull and empty so we decided that we we have our meal in the last week of the month and liven the month up a bit.

"It was a good turn out on the night and we were very well looked after as usual by Ian and Teresa. It really is a nice country pub for a meal and we all thoroughly enjoyed it."
